

Cosmic ride of disasters

Earlier this week, two girls were on a stroll at a nearby park, close to their home. One of the girls, Ellie, found two tickets on the ground (wet and dirty) that said “fourteenth of March- A mystery space mission!” Ellie shook Isla “OMG i can't believe it! We have to go, we have to!” She exclaimed. Isla shook her head “No we can't, our parents will find out, it takes at least a week to get there!” Ellie laughed “Just lie and say it's a school trip for one week and two days!” Isla sighed “fine fine i'll meet you at 6pm tonight one hour before the mystery space visit” Ellie smiled. “See you then alligator” Ellie runs off as Isla shouts “That didn't make sense!” Isla started running home panting. At last they both make it home “Hi mum im home i have a school trip tomorrow ! no phones and it takes a week to get there. By the way, I'll be safe and it's two days long!” mumbled Ellie. Mum nodded as she reluctantly said “I don't want you to go but I'll let you”. Ellie was relieved her mum let her go
One week to go...

A few months later Isla and Ellie got into the space industry. Ellie thought she was living in a flight of fancy on the other hand was stunned, overwhelmed. They get in the intergalactic spaceship feeling a sudden echo “10! 9! 8! 7! 6! 5! 4! 3! 2! ! BLAST OFF!” Suddenly Ellie expressed “I'm living in a dream come true. I'm so delighted!” she squealed.
Isla gripped her seat sarcastically saying in a shaky voice “Yes i'm very pleased with this!” Ellie scoffed, pulling Isla up.
“Isla don't be so scared it's a one time opportun-WOW look the sky is Divine! That galaxy is STUNNING” Isla zones out looking at the beautiful galaxy as she chuckles “You were right this is truly heavenly!” They both put their hands on the warm, Thick glass. After a few minutes, Isla sits down and stammers “I-Feel uneasy. I'm so hot under this space helmet!” Ellie sits next to her “One more day then we are there, let's enjoy the view!”
Isla grunts “Ok ok fine i'll look at the planets” Ellie points “OMG it's Mars, the real thing! i can't believe i'm seeing this with my own two eyes” Isla Almost chokes “wow it really is Dazzling” They both start jumping at a snail's pace.

After what seemed like an eternity of an adventure to space ,A problem occurred, a great, big asteroid hit the glass of the spaceship. A lack of air made the problem worse, Isla was freaked out “OMG i told you this was a bad idea!” she exclaimed. Ellie ran side to side like a loose chicken! “No no it's fine i'll find some tape i think they provided us with some!!” Isla screamed! “THERE

IS ANOTHER ONE!” Ellie gasped in a sign of relief the asteroid had missed the engine of the ship barely. Ellie was scattering around trying to find tape trying to grab Isla “oh my god! Help me then!!!” Isla got up avoiding the shards of the broken glass stepping over almost standing on one. Isla panicked “NO im scared i have a whole future to live!”
What happens next..?.

Behind the sleeping bags of the rocket, Was tape to cover the crack! But that was useless she sprinkled about, looking side to side, Finally! She had found a spare thick glass (a window) Behind the control panel which she immediately grabbed. Ellie grabbed the special (gorilla) glue and smeared it all over the window, sticking it gently onto the wrecked pieces of glass. Even though, she stuck the spare glass window to the window there was still a lack of air they swooshed their face behind their shoulder, realizing two windows were broken to pieces. First that window next this one! Ellie grunted while darting to the storage room, looking under cardboard, plastic boxes until ,she found a weird big shiny box that hit the corner of her eye. She flew towards it grabbing it carefully proceeded to swoosh the gorilla glue and window. Ellie showing that she's worried and going fast , meanwhile, Isla is calm hovering with Ellie “How are u so calm!” Ellie shrieked. “Isla glue!” Isla launched the glue to Isla, as she caught it excellently caught it “nice catch” Ellie grinned “pass me the window cautiously!” Isla set down the window next to her, Ellie glued it on and at last their space mission had ended and their flying home yay!
Will it resume..?

By May