

The disaster in space !!

Last month a couple of teenagers won a competition, so were invited to go on a space mission to study Mercury for college. One of the teenagers were called Ben and the other teenager was called Elsie and Elsie was a lot more calmer than Ben, Ben was really worried his anxiety was playing up and he was playing with his fingers a lot Elsie avenshaly calm Ben down after she calmed him and telling him all the positive things about this mission like if we do this then we will be one out of all people in the world to go to space !! He smiled with bright eyes and they looked at each other for a moment. Elsie smiled back and the next day they met at nasa's space station.

At midday, the next day, they met Elsie then showed Ben around the station. A couple of minutes later the countdown started and the excitement. Emotions are getting more heightened Ben got more and more worried as he heard the countdown "10 9 8 7 6 5 4 3 2 1 BLAST OFF !!" Elsie was really excited. The rocket shot up and then it went pitch black. Ben was crying as Elsie was trying to bring his emotions down, then she put her face on the cool, cold glass . "It is going to be ok, Ben."

"Thank you Elsie. I really do trust you" weeped Ben .

" Now I just want you to enjoy yourself. Do I make myself clear exclaimed Elsie

"Ok I will try without freaking out" replied Ben .

"There is no need to freak out Ben" sighed Elsie .

" I know but" muttered Ben .

"You are fine, ok " yelled Elsie .

The rocket started to rock side to side and it took them awhile to figure out that the fuel light was flashing red. Ben was screaming like a baby.

Elsie was trying to multitask because she was trying to calm Ben down and try to sort the rocket out . Then she just remembered that there was emergency fuel in the back of the rocket. She darted to the back and searched for it but then she couldn't find it. It took her a couple of stressful minutes then she found it she said to Ben in relief i just remembered that i brought some emergency fuel in the back

“ But how are we supposed to put it in” confuseally asked Ben

“ I have got an idea trussed me” excitingly said Elsie

“ ok go on then “ sighed Ben

“Ok so you are going to hold a rope and I am going to the other side of the rope and when I am finished you are going to pull me up. Do you think you can do that?” Elsie explained.

Elsie started to tie the rope around her waist, because she needed to get out the rocket towards the fuel tank at the back. As Elsie began floating round the rocket, Ben, who was feeling nervous, was tying the rope around his shaky hand. With the fuel bottle in her hand, she began pouring the fuel in the tank after that Ben pulled her up back into the safe rocket . After what seemed like a lifetime, the red light stopped flashing. Ben and Elsie paused and looked at each other as they both said at the “let's stick to Earth” at the exact same moment .

Would you want to go to space ??

By Ruby-Mae