Although the majority of parents do not remember reading about the Children's Rights on a school letter, more than half the parents reported that their child had talked about it with them at home.

All of the parents as ked liked the idea of their child discussing their rights with them. They all agreed that it was an important topic to learn about in school (and believed that it would benefit their future)

All of the parents asked, said that they would like to know more about this topic being taught in school.
